Early Literacy

Fun ways to promote learning over the cold winter months

1. Letter Practice

Practice letter writing on frosted windows and doors. Have an older child? Practice cursive letters, too.

2. Be calm and read on

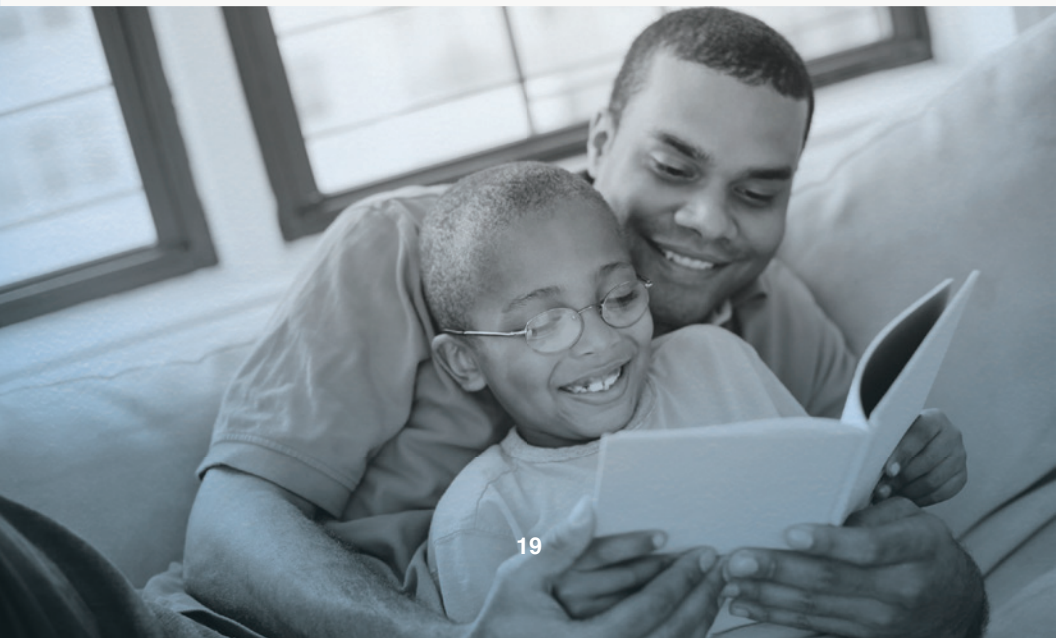

Holiday shopping in a crowded store? Allow yourself a few minutes to browse the book section and sit with your child and read for a quick break.

3. Bake it up

Have your child help make a list of all the ingredients you need at the store for those special holiday cookies. While at the store, see if your child can match the words on the list to the words on the packages.

4. Oh, snow

Playing in the snow can be a great time for learning. Make a pile of snowballs and ask your child to count them. How many buttons can they count out for the snowman? Work on directions by following a path in the snow. The opportunities are endless!
